Enduring Understandings

(Based on National Foreign Language Standards)

- Effective communication requires knowing how when and why to say what to whom.
- Global citizenship requires an ability to communicate in more than one language.
- An ability to communicate in another language fosters a better understanding of my own language and culture.
- Proficiency in a foreign language is a vehicle to gaining knowledge that can only be acquired through that language and its culture.
- Learning other languages enables an individual to participate in multilingual communities.
- The purpose of language study is to communicate so I can understand others and they can understand me.
- The study of a foreign language develops insights into the nature of language and culture.
- Custom and tradition vary within a culture, as well as between cultures.

American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages

Essential Questions

(related to 5Cs)

- What does it mean to communicate effectively?
- How do I develop proficiency in a second language?
- What is culture? How can I develop a multi-cultural perspective?
- Why do I value the ability to communicate in a second language?
- What self-knowledge am I acquiring as I study another language and its cultures?

Food and Hunger

Students will consider personal connections with food. They will consider the type of food that they and others eat and will indicate their likes and dislikes. They will be able to say why they eat/don't eat certain foods, describing their tastes and commenting on how healthy or unhealthy certain foods are. They will be able to explain the number of calories needed to sustain life and will analyze the number of calories they consume with regard to the US and other food pyramids. Finally, they will consider why hunger exists, where it is prevalent and how various organizations are helping. As a class students will work individually and in groups to draw attention to hunger issues.

ACTFL Integrated Performance Assessment

Interpretive Communication

Students listen to, view and / or read an authentic text and answer information as well as interpretive questions to assess comprehension. The teacher provides students with feedback on performance.

Presentational Communication

Students engage in the presentational mode by sharing their research/ ideas/opinions. Samples presentational formats: speeches, drama, skits, videos, radio broadcasts, posters, brochures, essays, websites, etc.

Interpersonal Communication

After receiving feedback students engage in communication about a particular topic which relates to the interpretive text.

American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages

Stage 2: Assessment Evidence

Performance Task Summary (Integrated Performance Assessment)

Interpretive	Students will read short authentic texts that provide information on food and hunger. They texts will be excerpted from Copain du Monde. Students will be given key English words and asked to find the French equivalent. They will be given statements and will indicate which statements provide information that is shared in the reading. They will also watch a brief youtube clip and state the main idea of the clip in English.
Interpersonal	Students will have completed various activities based on visuals throughout the unit. For the interpersonal assessment, students will be given random images and will be expected to ask and answer questions about food choice, likes and dislikes and diet. They will discuss hunger based on the setting of the images.
Presentational	Students will create a public service announcement to address nutritional and / or hunger issues in their community.
Formative Assessments
Students will assume the identity of a child in another country and will present basic facts on food and nutritional issues.
Other Summative Assessments

Individual Accountability

Allow students to practice an answer using a strategy such as think-pair-share. Then, call on 3-4 students at random to give the answer. Students who have practiced with their partner or group should be able to give a solid answer. A good answer scores a 10. A zero is given only when students do not know what is expected. Use the index cards over the course of a marking period. Total the points. If some students have 4 answers and others have 2, use 3 as the average or 30 points. Drop the lowest score for those who have 4 answers, use the average of the 2 to determine a third score for those who have 2. Put the score into your gradebook in an appropriate category.

Strategies for Cooperative Work

Think - Pair - Share

The teacher poses a problem or presents a topic. Students are given time to think and may be asked to jot down their thoughts or asked to respond individually using tools such as polleverywhere. They then pair with another student to discuss the topic or compare responses. Finally, they share their thoughts with the whole class.

Strategies for Cooperative Work

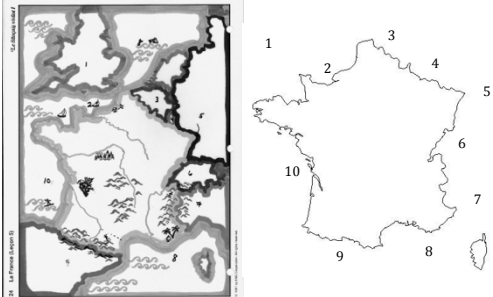

Numbered Heads Together

Directions: Students assemble into groups and number off. The teacher asks a question and tells the groups to put their heads together. The teacher calls a number and selects a group. The student with that number in that group answers. The teacher asks the students of the same number from the other groups if they agree with the response or asks them to elaborate on the response.

Inappropriate Grading Practices

- Rating homework and first efforts
- Using averages exclusively
- Using zeros indiscriminately
- Combining attitude and effort with achievement
- Applying severe penalties to late work
- Giving extra credit or bonus marks
- Distinguishing between excused and unexcused absences
- Applying assessment penalties to academic dishonesty
- Not giving special consideration to recent achievement
- Including group scores in individuals grades
- Basing grades on — poor quality assessments, assessment methods, unclear or limited performance standards
- Basing grades on a “lurking” bell curve

It is really quite simple. First you arrange things into different groups. Of course, one group may be sufficient depending on how much there is to do. It is important not to overdo things. That is, it is better to do too few things than too many. In the short run this may not seem important but complications can easily arise. A mistake can be expensive. At first the whole procedure will seem complicated. Soon, however, it will become just another facet of life. It is difficult to foresee any end to the necessity of it. After the procedure is completed one arranges the materials into different groups again. Then the groups can be placed in their appropriate places. Eventually, they will be used once more and the whole cycle will then have to be repeated.

¿Quién Está Cantando?

A lo mejor lo oye, ¿pero lo ve? No es un pájaro, sino una diminuta ranita con la voz sonora de un cantante de ópera. En Puerto Rico se le escucha en toda partes.

Todas las mañanas, por las tardes y casi siempre cuando llueve, puede escuchar el canto de esta curiosa ranita: "co-quí — co-quí." Once de las 16 especies de coquíes que sólo viven en Puerto Rico viven en este bosque.

Sabía que los coquíes no beben el agua? Ellos absorben el agua por la piel, como si fuera una esponja, lo cual los hace más susceptibles a la contaminación del aire y del agua.

Reading Rhetorically: A Reader for Writers
American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages, Chappell, and Gillam

ACTFL Proficiency Guidelines 2012
Novice	Writers at the Novice level are characterized by the ability to produce lists and notes, primarily by writing words and phrases. They can provide limited formulaic information on simple forms and documents. These writers can reproduce practiced material to convey the most simple messages. In addition, they can transcribe familiar words or phrases, copy letters of the alphabet or syllables of a syllabary, or reproduce basic characters with some accuracy.
Intermediate	Writers at the Intermediate level are characterized by the ability to meet practical writing needs, such as simple messages and letters, requests for information, and notes. In addition, they can ask and respond to simple questions in writing. These writers can create with the language and communicate simple facts and ideas in a series of loosely connected sentences on topics of personal interest and social needs. They write primarily in present time. At this level, writers use basic vocabulary and structures to express meaning that is comprehensible to those accustomed to the writing of non-natives.
Advanced	Writers at the Advanced level are characterized by the ability to write routine informal and some formal correspondence, as well as narratives, descriptions, and summaries of a factual nature. They can narrate and describe in the major time frames of past, present, and future, using paraphrasing and elaboration to provide clarity. Advanced-level writers produce connected discourse of paragraph length and structure. At this level, writers show good control of the most frequently used structures and generic vocabulary, allowing them to be understood by those unaccustomed to the writing of non-natives.
